DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3 and 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US PAT 6,934,372 to Lynam et al. (Lynam).

As to claims 1,8,12 Lynam discloses a charging control system place on a communication network (title), a detection section (fig 2c), a determination section for determining a charge rate (inherent in that fig 3c discloses charging and amount and this must be calculated), a charging rate information display (fig 3c) which information would be received by a receiver.

As to claim 2, the information is valid of the current user.

As to claim 3, fig 3c would show the maximum rate (the disclosed rate being the maximum), Lynam further discloses a relay control section (col 8, lines 31-54).

As to claim 7, Lynam discloses detecting traffic on the route (col 8, lines 2-11) and a section for determining one of the servers that would be most advantageous (col 8, lines 10-11).

Art Unit: 3629

As to claim 9, Lyman discloses continuing or stopping the communication based on the rate and a preset value (the user's credit limit, col 7, lines 20-54).

As to claim 10, Lyman discloses a section for receiving charging rate information (inherent in that col 8, line 27 discloses providing it), a retrieval section for retrieving the preferred server (col 8, lines 10-11).

As to claim 11, the retriever would inherently use this information as a local number would correspond to the charging rate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lynam.

Lynam discloses a system as discussed above.

Art Unit: 3629

As to claim 4, Lynam does not, however, teach a section for preparing charging rate statistical information indicating time-series variations in the rate. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Lynam by allowing the system to note changing rates (such as higher long-distance rates in the day as opposed to nights and weekends in case a local number is not available), it would further be obvious to include this in the display to ensure the user knows the charges.

As to claim 5, Lynam disclosed choosing the preferred server based on the information provided (col 8, lines 10-11).

As to claim 6, Lynam discloses noting access frequency (fig 4), and retrieves one of the servers based on this (number called, in fig 4).
